Making Last Year's Hat Do Double Duty

Before we invest in a really new | and rub it off with a piece of black 1914 spring hat there is a between period rather hard to fill. Why not get over that by doing up our old hats? This little economy might enable us to buy something really good later. Here are some suggestions, tested and not found wanting:

To clean a white felt hat, fill am pot with flour and put it in the oven until it is quite hot. Then quickly, with white flanner, rub the hot flour into the felt very thoroughly and dust it off with a perfectly cleen brush or a white clotn.

The hat will be as new.

White straw hats can be cleaned and the sunburn removed as follows: Warm a lemen, squeeze it toto s saucer and add a teaspoonful of powdered sulphur. Brush this well on the hat, rinse several times in cold water, wipe with a dry cloth and finally dry in the shade. That hat will be as when you bought it.

Artificial flowers may be restored in many cases—not all—by holding them for a couple of minutes in the steam of boiling water.

Black felt hats can be made guite nice if well rubbed with benzine. Dry in the open air.

Black straw hats, if faded, should be treated as follows: Get a piece of good black sealing wax, one-half ounce, powder it and add to it two ounces of pure spirits of wine.

Stand the bottle near the fire until the wax is quite dissolved, then brush it on the hat with a tooth brush. Do this near a fire. The hat will be quite stiff and glossy.

Ribbons, if they were good when bought, can be washed in tepid water (potato water is the best) with the fingers, using if any, just a little

Rinse repeatedly in tepid waters, squeeze in a towel, hang out to dry then iron, sandwiching the ribbon between two sheets of white paper.

Fur hats should be treated as fol lows: Warm some bran and rub it thoroughly into the fur with the hand. Do this two or three times, shake and brush well. It makes the hat as new White fur hats are not all done for when soiled. Rub these with warm moist bran until dry then as above with dry bran. Finish by rubbing well with marnesia.
